

United Artists Consolidated Series

In 1972, United Artists changed their catalog numbering system to one consolidated system that included all the United Artists series and also the labels they owned or distributed. This consolidated series continued until the label was discontinued in 1981. The first two letters in the catalog number indicated the label (UA=United Artists, PP=Poppy, etc.) , followed by "LA" which designated an LP, followed by the catalog sequence number, with a letter suffix that was a pricing code. In 1979, when UA was sold to Capitol, the catalog numbers began reflecting the Capitol coding sequence (LT-, LOO-, etc.). Because the albums all used "LA" in the catalog number (until 1979), this consolidated series is often referred to as the "LA series."
